Johnson-Beckley Wedding in Marshfield Last Week.

A very pretty home wedding took place at the home of Abel Beckley in Marshfield Tuesday, March 7, when their daughter, Maud L., and Charles F. Johnson were united in marriage by Rev. F. E. Currier, in the presence of a few friends. After a bountiful lunch was served, the happy couple departed for a short wedding trip. That their wedded life may be as beautiful as the day on which they were married is the wish of their many friends.

On Tuesday morning, just before town meeting opened, W. B. Lanco handed his resignation as superintendent of schools to the directors. Mr. Lanco wishes to state that he had contemplated doing this for some time and that it was on account of his own personal affairs.

Town meeting passed off more quietly than was anticipated. The officers for the coming year are: Moderator, H. O. Dwinell; town clerk, B. G. Rogers; selectman, E. H. Smith; J. E. D. Walcott; road commissioners, J. M. Southwick and W. O. Southwick; school director, A. J. Smith; overseer of poor, E. A. Merritt. Tax raised, $2, and $300 voted for permanent road work. ## RANDOLPH.

Death of Luke Parish, Who Went West for His Health.

The news has just been received here of the death of Luke Parish on March 6, at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. E. Roseborough, in Texarkana, Arkansas, where he went, accompanied by Mrs. Parish, three months ago, hoping that the mild winter climate there might improve his health. Just before his death he expressed a wish to have his body kept in a closed vault until the winter snow had melted in his native state, and in accordance with this request the remains will not be brought to Randolph till April 1. Mr. Parish was born in this town 55 years ago, the son of the late Judge Jacob Kimball and Mary (Converse) Parish, and had been a lifelong and prominent citizen here. He was a consistent and faithful member of Grace Episcopal church, of which he had been senior warden for many years and whose services he was a devout and regular attendant from childhood. In politics he was a Republican, and to this party he was loyal, ever giving of time and strength to its service. For 30 years he was tax collector and constable of Randolph, 25 years deputy sheriff and 10 years deputy United States marshal. He was sheriff of Orange county at the time of the riot at the Ely copper mines in July, 1883, and was the first man to enter the camp of miners at that time. He served his town as representative in the House in 1908, where he also did efficient work. He was a Son of the American Revolution, and at the time of the Champlain tercentenary celebration was one of the two real Sons of the War of 1812 who were present at the exercises. Deceased was an honorary member of U. S. Grant post, G. A. R., and was also prominently identified with the Phoenix lodge, A. F. and A. M., and the local chapter, O. E. S., in both of which orders he had long been a member. For the last three and a half years he had been an invalid from an injury received in his own barn while unloading hay, and his sufferings have been severe. Deceased is survived by his wife, who has ministered to his relief and comfort through all the long illness; two brothers, Mark Parish of Oakland, Cal., and Judge J. K. Parish of Ashland, Wis., and two sisters, Mrs. E. L. Brown of Bileco, Miss, and Mrs. E. C. Sessions, who lives in the West.

MONTPELIER.

N. A. Alexander Appointed Chief of the Fire Department.

The Montpelier city council held a special meeting Saturday afternoon, at which the mayor appointed the standing committee for the year, and the fire department situation was discussed. The question involved was whether the new law regarding the appointment of fire chiefs, which became effective on March 1, 1911, legislated last year's chief and his assistant out of office. To make the matter sure, N. A. Alexander was unanimously re-elected to serve as fire chief, with the understanding that it might be necessary for him to resign when the fire department committee makes its report. It was voted to have no city physician and to have the overseer of the poor procure any physician he thinks best in case of sickness in the families of needy persons. Alderman Farrar objected to the presence of reporters at the council meetings. He said he had things to say that he didn't want printed in the newspapers. A discussion followed and it was decided that except in cases where business transactions were under consideration and not fully completed, the public should have the right to know what was taking place in the meetings and that the newspapers had the right to publish such statements for the enlightenment of the people.

A daughter was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Seguin.

N. A. Alexander, chief of the fire department, has appointed C. B. McAllister as first assistant and Norman P. D'Arthy as second assistant.

At the annual meeting of the New Hampshire and Vermont Lumbermen's association, just ended in Nashua, N. H., William P. Whitecomb of this city was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. S. B. Sibley died Saturday at the state hospital for the insane at Waterbury, after being there only about three weeks. She was the daughter of J. Edward Perrin and was born in Cincinnati 53 years ago, December 8, 1903.

She married Mr. Sibley, who survives her; also two brothers, George and Henry Perrin of Berlin. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 1 o'clock from her late home in Berlin, Rev. Frank Blomfield officiating.

An alarm from box 15 Saturday night called out the fire department for a blaze in the R. M. Shepard shoe store on State street, but the flames had been extinguished by a chemical before the department arrived. Mr. Shepard had been away from the store but a few minutes and just before leaving he lighted his pipe. It is thought that he dropped it, and that the fire started from this. The damage was probably less than $25.

Easter Hats.

"Here's a bit of hat wisdom worth considering: Don't look upon your spring hat merely in the light of a necessary head-covering. Don't regard its selection as a trivial matter and something the quicker you get through with the better. Don't be too much influenced by the prevailing mode in millinery or the persuasive voice of the saleswoman. Use your own judgment and remember that the new hat requires respectful consideration," says Grace Margaret Gould in Woman's Home Companion for March.

"If you know hats at all, you will quickly realize how true this is, for even the most innocent-looking hat you can picture has latent possibilities all its own which are worth serious thought. Think of the ways a hat, just a mere, new, spring hat, can change just as quickly make you a subject of ridicule. It can add, simply by the facing of the brim or its curve, years—yes, years—to your age, or it can give a fresh, youthful glow to your complexion and be kind, very kind, in its softening influence upon those telltale lines every woman wants to hide.

"Now as to the new fashions in hats for spring: First, there is the tendency of the brim to turn upward. And upward it does turn in a variety of ways. On the other hand, a number of picture shapes show a broad brim which droops slightly, but the extreme mushroom effect is no longer seen. Head sizes in the new hats are much smaller, but this change does not tend to raise the hat that would not be correct, for the hats that sit well down on the head are still the mode. Fashion has decreed no one particular shape in crowns. They vary according to the lines of the brim."

Why All the Heavy Manufacturers Have Left the State of New York.

Albert Jay Nock has been writing a series of articles for The American Magazine on the archaic system of personal property taxation, which has been abolished in every other great nation in the world but ours. In the March issue, Mr. Nock views the subject as a matter of business policy. He says:

"When your cow walks up to the barn to be milked, do you take a whip and drive her away?"

"A Canadian farmer offered this practical criticism of the personal property tax: 'What is the right? Leaving out good morals and good sense, is it good business policy to tax movables and make them run away from you? New York used to have heavy factories, even in the borough of Manhattan, but they have all moved away. In 1870 there were enough heavy factories along the river frontage of Manhattan to employ 100,000 skilled workmen. Gradually they disappeared and went over to New Jersey. The Singer Sewing Machine company was the first to go; it moved to Elizabeth, N. J., in 1873. It did not want to go just then; in fact, it tried hard to stay where it was. It held conferences with the tax department for three years, trying to get some measure of relief, and finally gave up and moved. The Colgate Soap company, which had been operating in New York since 1808, and the Lorillard Tobacco company, in New York since 1769, moved company in New York since 1769, the original settler left on the shores of Manhattan was the printing press factory of R. Hoe & company at Grand street, which is there still.

"What induced all these heavy factories to move? One could understand why in the course of time they might move out of Manhattan, but why did they leave the state? Cheap land partly; still, New Jersey riparian land on the banks of the North river was selling at fifty dollars a foot, which was nearly giving it away; and there was cheap land, too, on the New York water front above Manhattan. Dockage facilities, partly; still, the pork barrel might have been tapped for the Queens water front or for Jamaica bay, as well as for Newark bay. Partly to get a direct railway connection with water-freight terminals, in order to save lighters on large quantities of low grade cargo; still, the immense stretch of the Kills would have filled this bill ideally; it would fill it ideally to-day, and yet it is bare of factories. Standing there in the midst of a ruined, broken down residence district, and looking over at the immense factories, a pistol-shot across the Kills, one cannot help wondering why they are all on the Jersey side of the straits.

"The personality tax in New York was the determining factor that put them there. Mayor McCellan's advisory commission, reporting in 1907, makes the personality tax squarely responsible for New York's loss and New Jersey's gain. The Merchants' Association of New York, made the same statement last year. If New York abolished its personal property tax, with the transportation facilities it now has in the borough of Queens, the ideal factory site on Jamaica bay and the whole west end of Long Island would be covered with heavy manufacturing plants in nearly the time it would take to build them."

UNIFORM PRICES

Recommended to Dealers in Monuments by Trade Journal.

At some of the retail monument dealers' conventions held last month there was brought up the matter of requesting eastern granite manufacturers to grant a reasonable discount for cash payments on finished monumental work. There is no doubt about the justice of the request and there is no doubt but that such a system, properly worked out, would be of equal advantage to the first-class retail dealer and to the manufacturer as well. Before going into it, however, under the existing circumstances, it would be well to consider the fact which is very well known at the manufacturing end and that the dealer who is known to pay his bills promptly invariably gets a better price from the reputable manufacturer than the one who is known to delay payment. Nevertheless this system is very unsatisfactory and works to no particular advantage to either side, as there are always plenty of slow pay dealers who will cut the price to their customers far below the actual cost of a first-class job and then turn it over to some manufacturer equally unscrupulous to the value of his future reputation and probably ignorant of what it cost work. The result is that the customer becomes the victim, although he may have thought when the contract was signed, that he secured a bargain; the dealer who sold the job injured his standing in the business; the manufacturer did something which will put him out of commission as fast as anything could do it; and the reliable dealer and reliable manufacturer in the case had the work stolen from them.

This trouble, like nearly every other trouble in the monument business, brings us back to the original cause of it all, lack of a system of more uniform prices on the part of the manufacturers. Whenever this problem can be worked out, the matter of liberal discounts for cash can be easily settled, and furthermore it would place the manufacturer in a position where the quality of his work and the service given would determine the extent and growth of his business.—American Stone Trade.

STABBING CAUSES A RACE RIOT.

Policeman Cut and Mexican and Four Negroes Are Severely Beaten.

Galveston, Texas, March 13.—A race riot was precipitated early yesterday by the stabbing of Winfield Joel, a soldier from the camp at Fort Crockett, by an unidentified negro in a resort. One Mexican and four negroes were severely beaten and the house in front of which the stabbing occurred was set on fire and burned to the ground. The entire police force of the city was called out to quell the disturbance.

Joel who is a member of the 144th company, coast artillery, was seriously wounded, but probably will recover. The policeman patrolling the beat was stabbed in the back by another soldier during the melee immediately following the wounding of Joel. He was not seriously hurt.

A remark by one of Joel's companions about the color of the occupants of the house caused the attack.
